Irma Field Better Than Fort Norman

Men have predicted that it will not be long before more interest is being shown in the Irma oil field than in any part of the north-west. With the commencement of actual development by the Imperial Oil Company on their extensive holdings in this district. And the other wells that are being arranged for development should soon be under way to a good start. Apparently the Imperial Oil Company have secured sufficient holdings in this important district to justify rapid development. With the good roads to their holdings, the good railway accommodation to the district it should not take them long to get operations under way.

This week Mr. W. A. English representing large California interests, has been looking over the district from Hardisty to Birch Lake. Evidently the big companies from the States, are beginning to feel that it will not be necessary to go to the far north to find a large oil pool. The Canadian Government have seen fit to modify the regulations, so that American capital can be invested in development work. The fact is that already this news is having its effect, and several representatives of different big oil Companies from the States have looked the field over. With the evidence found in the two incomplete test wells that have been put down, and the excellent showing in the outcroppings in the different parts of the field, it does not take an experienced Geologist or Oil engineer long to find that the Irma field the logical place to find oil.

The Talpey Arnold Co. are completing the installation of their new machinery. With this new machinery installed this company will be in shape to do rapid drilling, and it should not be long till they will be able to be pounding away again.

As soon as the formation has been thoroughly tested by standard drills, several engineers have predicted that we would see a large number of rotary rigs in the district, as they claim that the formation is well adapted for this form of drill. But it is not considered advisable to use them until the formation has been explored with the standard drill.

While the acreage of the Irma Field has been extensively filed on, yet it will not be hard for companies with capital to get in touch with owners of good locations. The editor of the Times will be glad at all times to assist drilling companies to secure suitable locations.

WHEAT ACREAGE LESS THAN BEFORE WAR

Europe Next Season Will Require as Much as Was Imported During Year 1920

The bullish tone of the market last week end was based on reports that Europe will require as much wheat next season as it imported this season. Their acreage, including North Africa, is less than three per cent over 1920, and compared with 1914 the acreage is reduced 35 per cent. With the world's stock of old wheat at 52,000,000 bushels by July 18th, shows that consumption is right on the heels of production; indeed, last year the world ate more wheat than it produced.—Market Examiner

MRS. HOCKEN HONORED

A pleasing event took place at the home of Mrs. G. A. Tripp on Saturday afternoon when a number of ladies gathered to bid farewell to Mrs. Hocken. IRMA PREACHER LEAVES

Rev. C. G. and Mrs. Hocken left Tuesday to motor to their new location at Bow Island. Friday night the Ladies Aid held a garden party at the home of Mr. James Fenton. A large number of residents of Irma and the district attended and spent an enjoyable evening. Before the crowd dispersed Mr. J. G. Clark gave a very fitting address of farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Hocken who during their four years stay at the Irma parsonage have made many friends. Sunday night a large crowd attended the church service. After which most of them bid farewell and wished Mr. and Mrs. Hocken success in their new field.

The closing date is set for Friday, July 15th, when auto races will again be the special feature. On Guard

"External vigilance is the price of liberty." This is true in every walk and activity of life. It is true not merely of the nation, but of the individual. It is true in the realm of political reform, in the preservation of health, in the success of any business undertaking. The man who is indifferent to, neglects and sleeps on his job, cannot succeed. Failure under such circumstances is inevitable in the long run.

Once again the farmers of Western Canada have seeded their acres. It is to be hoped that, bearing the above adage in mind, they have used only good clean seed, the best that could be obtained. It is to be hoped, also, that to the full extent of their available equipment, and the time at their disposal, they have pursued the best accepted methods of farming and prepared the seed bed in the most approved manner.

The growing season (at the time of writing this article) has been all that could be desired, with copious rains and cool days which give promise of a strong rooting of the grain so that it will be in the best possible condition to withstand a dry period should such fall.

But "external vigilance is the price of liberty." There are many enemies to a growing crop in this western country. Farmers everywhere must remain alert and vigilant to combat these on every hand. There is the grasshopper scourge. Governments and municipalities have devised and outlined the best methods of fighting this pest, and those materials required to wage the battle have been procured. But official bodies cannot do it all. It remains for the individual farmer everywhere to do his share, to do it promptly and thoroughly. All the precautionary measures should be taken, and an ever watchful eye kept on developments. It is necessary to wage the battle against the grasshopper, not only to save this year's crop, but to insure the success of future crops which the rapid elimination of this danger requires.

Then there is the noxious weed. It takes many forms, but each and every variety is destructive, some, of course, more destructive than others. Noxious weeds have, through neglect, because of neglect in the past, ruined many a fine farm. They are still making headway, and a combined alliance by all agriculturists against them is one of the pressing needs of the present time. Noxious weeds cannot be fought by farmers singly. Despite the greatest care by scores of farmers, one or two indifferent and neglectful farmers can do irreparable damage to a whole district. The high winds of the west can send an immense area of land with weeds just as effectively as a drill can seed them.

Farmers complain sometimes of excessive elevator charges taking an undue toll from the receipts of their year's labor, or of the prevailing high freight rates which have the same effect, or of the loss of so many cents a bushel resulting from a sudden drop in the market price. It is important, however, that they should become fully seized of the fact that noxious weeds by decreasing the yield from their acre's is taking, year after year, a heavier toll than any one of these things, and frequently a heavier toll than all of them put together.

Noxious weeds impose a loss of millions of dollars annually upon the farmers of Western Canada through decreased yield. They impose a further loss in threshing bills. They add more loss in a falling off in grade. Finally, they are a huge bill of expense for work in cleaning the land once it has been fouled, while the capital and sale value of any farm is enormously reduced from the presence of weeds, not only on the farm itself, but in the surrounding district.

Every farmer, therefore, should not only make it his personal business to clean his own land, and keep it clean, but he should actively interest himself in the affairs of his municipality and see that, through the enactment and enforcement of necessary laws for the protection of all, his whole district is cleaned up and kept clean.

Saskatoon Supplies Lamp Standards

A shipment of fifty cast-iron lamp standards by the John East Iron Works, of Saskatoon, to Regina to be placed on the parliament building grounds, is claimed to be the first order of this nature to be placed west of Winnipeg. The lamp post is nine feet high with a twenty-inch base, weighing about four hundred and twenty pounds each. —New York Life.

World Happenings Briefly Told

Watson Batchelor's Glasgow cattle reports show that Canadian steers sold at 19 and 20 cents per pound live weight.

Emma Goldman, deported to Russia, is said to be pleading with her friends to obtain permission for her to come "home" to the U.S. to die.

Two sisters just graduated from Athens, O., high school have attended school ten years without missing a day or being late.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, minister of agriculture, declined to accede to a proposal that the "short" berry box be permitted again, this season.

A powerful "funeral trust," reaping a toll of millions of dollars from Chacoagoa by maintaining high prices for funeral cars and hearses, is said to have been in operation in Chicago for years.

Six Japanese submarines have collided during naval maneuvers off the coast of Kiusiu; and one of them has been seriously damaged. As a result the proposed long distance cruise of this craft has been postponed.

Janitor of the Ventor, N.J., city council chamber, is going to strike for bigger pay, because, he says, after the League of Women Voters ends its meetings the floor is so littered with cigarette butts as to cause him extra work.

PALE AND NERVOUS SCHOOL CHILDRENNeed Rich, Red Blood to Regain Health and Strength.

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time home work, examinations, hurried meals, and crowded school rooms cause the children to become overwrought and their color and spirits lost. It is a mistake to let matters drift, when boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness or weak blood. They are almost sure to fall victims of St. Vitus' dance, or some other disease.

Regular meals, out-door exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat the nervous wear of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the child's blood supply.

Keep this ratio up by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the boy or girl will be sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the cases of the wife of Mrs. Watson, Grand Falls, N.B., who says:

"In the spring of 1919 my daughter, Thistle, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness and lack of color to the point of fainting.

She began to lose control of her limbs and to lose muscle in her body, seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for 250¢ from The Dr. Wm. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MAGIC OF THE TEETH.

Copyright, 1921, by Res. Proctor McGee.

No other person has ever seen a picture or a landscape or a beautiful face or a sunset just as you age it.

No one has ever heard a piece of music or a thunderstorm just as you heard it.

When you and your dearest friend read the same book or hear the same story you will always differ a little in your understanding of it.

This is because every impression that comes to you is moulded by your own personality. Your personality is like an expert and import tax; it touches every act of life—it affects every impression, both coming and going.

Personality is the sum of all your experiences and of your ideas and of your memories, plus your physical condition.

Your appearance is a large factor in your effect upon other people; it is one of the great factors in your effect upon yourself.

We all love magic and the supernatural because the everyday humdrum of solid fact gets upon our nerves.

Fairy "tales" are not for children, they are for grown-ups.

We call them "novels" and we always expect the magical power of good to overcome the sorcery of evil.

Our heroes and heroines we always endow with beauty, health, energy or youth, because in our experience these conditions give a desirable personality and contribute to a happy present and a genial old age.

Our villains we endow with forbidding faces, crooked bodies, often with ill-health, because we know that these things warp the disposition and frequently change a pleasant personality into an unpleasant one.

Did you ever hear of a beautiful heroine or a manly hero whose smile showed a row of decayed teeth or inflamed gums? Do you remember how quickly Jefky Jefky's even and beautiful teeth changed into protruding snaggle teeth when he became Mr. Hyde?

Your mouth and teeth make up seventy-five per cent of your facial expression. Who wants to look like Mr. Hyde?

"Homing Squirrel" in B.C.

Many attempts made to lose him have failed.

A "homing" squirrel of more than ordinary sagacity and cunning is the subject of a great deal of interest in New Westminster, B.C. It took up its home in the rafters of the home of George H. Small some months ago with the evident intention of spending the remaining years of its life there. Various attempts to lose the squirrel proved fruitless. On one occasion it was taken to Vancouver and liberated in Stanley Park, but thirty-nine days later it was back in its New Westminster home.

"There is no doubt of the identity of the animal," said Mr. Small, "as he always comes to the same window for his food on his return, and then repairs to the same hole in the roof which is the entrance to his home."

The squirrel has now been taken to West Vancouver and will either have to swim the inlet or come over on the ferry if he elects to return home.

True Bear Stories

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

An old Indian friend of mine named Robert Bear (still living), with whom I passed the spring on two neighboring stages in the flooded lands of the lower Saskatchewan many years ago, used to chat with me over his hunting experiences round the camp fire; same fire being built on a clay bottom, on the poles which formed the floor of each stage, and I have known the water rise very close to the floor, but this only for a short time and when the ice had jammed at the elbow of the Big River.

Robert was a sincere Christian and a devout member of the English Church which has done so much towards the work amongst the Indian tribes of the Northwest; his grandmother was, it is said an Esquimaux, while he was born and brought up amongst the swampy Crees of the lower Red River settlement. A splendid big game and fur hunter, he was remarkably cool in moments of danger as the following incidents will show.

At my request for a story one evening, Robert said, "I was in the employ of the Hudsons Bay Company at Fairford Post, situated at the north end of Lake Manitoba, and the master there had occasion to send an express packet of importance to Fort Garry; this I was to take alone and on foot, and I decided to strike a direct course through the bush and swamps. It was the spring of the year and I was travelling light; a H. B. blanket 3 point; two pairs of moccasins; a single barrel flint lock gun; tomahawk and scalping knife with some tea, tobacco and matches made up the outfit. I took no provisions, but would depend on game killed en route. The distance roughly speaking would be about 160 miles, and on my second morning out started as usual at the first peep of daylight and after an hour or so walking came out on the bank of a small round lake, about a long stone throw across; on the other side directly opposite we were two black bears standing on their hind legs and wrestling. I at once slipped a trading bullet on top of the shot charge in my gun, opened the pan and tapped the stock to reach the powder well up; just as I was occupied in these bears dropped on their four feet, looked across at me and each taking different directions started at a clumsy gallop round the lake. One thinks quick in a moment of this kind and I was not prepared with my single barrel to meet both bears at once so I started to run and met one of them, he came on at the same pace and when within a few feet I fired and killed him dead, then with my foot on his body I loaded as quickly as possible, but none too soon as the other bear was very close; taking careful aim I fired and killed him dead within a few feet of his mate."

"And then, Robert, what did you do?"

"I knelt down and thanked God for mercifully preserving my life (truly here was a lesson from an Indian, how few white men would have thought of their Maker). Well, my hunt was a good one, the bears were both young males and in prime condition; I decided to camp for a while and dry the skins so that I could put them in my pack and it would mean pocket money in Fort Garry; while the skins, after being carefully scraped, were drying, I cut a quantity of the meat up in thin strips and hung it on stakes in the smoke, this meaning grub for the trip. There was still a quantity of meat over and I did not want to waste the good food; fortunately there was a muskeg close and on pulling upon a lot of moss I came to ice and on that I piled the spare meat, then placed heavy logs over the cache to keep off Mister Wolverine."

This was the only exciting occurrence on the trip, but the next evening I struck a small Indian encampment and was received with the greatest hospitality as usual and in return I directed them to my bears meat cache and told them they were very welcome to the meat."

Many years after this Robert moved with his family to the south branch of the Saskatchewan and located on a small farm, where from this base he would go on extended hunts in the winter and crop his land in the summer time. About the same time or a year or so later I had started fur trading in the Stony Creek district (now Melfort), and on a trading trip to Chas-ka-ka-pa-sin's bands at Wawa-ge-mow I was offered parts of three black bear skins and at once inquired what happened to the rest of the skins. Their story told me by Ne-soo-pa-eynew was that a huge old grizzly had wandered from the plains (and not hibernating like the local bears) had found the winter dens of these unfortunate, dug them out, feasted on the meat and thus mutilated the hides; he had followed the track for some distance northwards and then dropped it. In the meantime the news of Mr. Grizzly's arrival had spread far and wide as they were rare visitors in the north country; Robert Bear was one of the first to hear of it and never having shot a grizzly he determined to track it if at all possible.

He was, I think, some three days on the trail, a rained as before with a single barrel gun, axe and knife, but at this date percussion locks had replaced the old-time flint, and after considerable circling he found the track at the main Saskatchewan River below the Forks; the bear crossed the river here and took to the dense bush; finally the track freshened and Robert stopped, overhauled his gun, replaced the cap and then with a determination that it was either him or the bear to cross the Great Divide, he waited for a favorable wind, and then, stepping like a ballet dancer, he crept along the trail.

Forestry Cheaper Than Chewing Gum

Small Sum Spent For Maintenance of Branches.

Canada's total expenditures on forest protection are about twice our forest protection bill.

To any Canadian who may protest that the allotments of money for forest protection by any government or private interest appear excessive, let him consider some of the bills the Canadian people cheerfully pay for their everyday luxuries.

We spend on face powder and perfume $1,000,000. The bill for ice cream cones for juvenile Canadians is larger than the total amount spent on all forms of forest protection and forestry in the province of Ontario.

The national bill for cigarettes alone is, over $23,000,000, and for cigars over $12,000,000.

When any complaint is heard that the nation is paying too much for the maintenance of forestry branches, let it be considered that all such expenses bulked together barely come up to the national outlay for the single item of chewing gum.

Glowing Stories From Oilfields

Party From Fort Norman Tell of Richness of District.

A party of nine have reached White Horse, Y.T., from the Fort Norman oil fields with glowing stories of the richness of the district. The trip from White Horse to Fort Norman and return was made in 60 days, including a six-day stop at Fort Norman. There were no hardships on the train, and they got back with the 35 dogs with which they started.

Members of the party reported that one well 50 miles below Fort Norman was recently capped outside a heavy pressure.

Fewer than 100 claims have been staked so far, it is reported. Three trading posts at Fort Norman supply the district with provisions, there being a plentiful supply of everything except salt.

Representations have been made to Ottawa to permit applications for claim records to be filed with the land agent at White Horse in order to save the long trip to the recording office in Edmonton.

The Elusive Maid.

Joan believed in open and frank friendship with young men, without any sentimentality. One young man gave her an endless amount of trouble.

One evening he plucked up courage and said to her, "I say, look here, jolly old Joan. Let's get married."

She replied, with a laugh, "Good heavens! Who'd have us, old thing?"

The Mightiest Jaws.

The wood-testing Titan of the Forest Products Laboratory in Michigan is a machine designed to crush a post a foot square like an egg shell, or to exert its million pounds of pressure on a timber structure 30 feet high.

The tremendous force can be exerted with the slowness of a building settling on its wooden foundation, or with the velocity of an express train crushing into a wooden trestle.

A Great Police Force

Royal Canadian Mounties Stand High In Estimation of West.

The Federal Government was wise in announcing in parliament that the identity of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police would be retained. The west needs the mounted police and the great work of the force is a matter of more pride with all true westerners. The eastern members of parliament can never appreciate how the Riders of the Plains have helped build the west; make Canada and lay some of the foundations of the empire. Old timers of the west do not need to be told what the mounted police mean to Canada and many new Canadians have appreciated the public deeds of the superb force, while others can but guess at the private work of the body that has made it almost the only known representative of law, order and justice in the far-flung outposts of this part of the British Empire. No other police force in the empire stands so high in the estimation of the public, abiding west as the mounted police. No other body of police is such a terror to the evil-doer; the pride of the force in itself, in doing the great or grave things that had to be done, is justified. The swivel-chair critics of the east can never realize that the mounted police aided them in sitting at their ease in their chairs but the west knows—and so do the evildoers. —From the Brandon Sun.

Germany Supplying Houses For France

Defeated Nation Going Into Portable Dwelling Business.

According to the Ministry of Liberated Regions, Germany will soon commence the delivery of twenty-five thousand wooden houses to be erected in the devastated zone of North-east France. The dwellings in question will be somewhat similar to the portable houses seen in Canadian summer resort camp colonies, but they will be built more solidly.

There is something particularly ironical in this Paris announcement and its relation to British Columbia. For it means that the defeated nation will be quick to seize upon the possibilities ahead of the wooden houses in Europe. And very probably grab that tremendous business to which Agent-General Wade directed the attention of this province more than twelve months ago. If Germany gets a foothold in Great Britain we may expect her to take the portable house business of Mesopotamia, Palestine and eventually that of the Antipodes.

Oldest Twins Win Ten Dollars

Men 87 Years Old Take Prize at Musical Comedy.

Twins, 108 pairs of them, 218 brothers and sisters, mostly brothers though, attended a twins' matine of "Two Little Girls in Blue" featuring the Fairbanks pair of girls at the George M. Cohen Theatre, New York. In response to the announcement that a $10 gold piece awaited the oldest pair who would come to the performance of the musical comedy, Emanuel and Leopold Klein, of Brooklyn crossed the East River and took away the chief award for being 87 years young and active. Seats were given to them in a stage box, and with them were seated Mrs. S. Boschart and Mrs. Jennie Cohen, twin sisters, aged 78 years, and William and James Farmer, 75 years old, both Civil War veterans. The other twins filled the remainder of the boxes and many seats in the orchestra.

An Unsinkable Plane

Novel Craft Is Designed For English Channel Service.

One of the latest ideas for the continental air service is an unsinkable airplane. It is being constructed by the Stagg Lévé Aerodrome Company, of Edgewater. The buoyancy is obtained by an inflated air balloon fitted into the rear end of the fuselage near the tail. It is figured that this will keep the machine well above water level in the event of an accident. In the roof is fitted a sliding mica emergency door through which travelers would be able to escape.

The innovations do not interfere with the speed of the machine, for it will make 120 miles an hour.

Robert's Reward.

Mrs. Boram—"Elsie, why isn't your brother Robert at the party, too?"

Elsie—"Please, Bobby, he's been a good boy all week, and mother said he needn't come."

Every dollar spent in your home town is a boost for the community.

Building For The Future

The Wool Clip

Warehouses Opened at Regina and Portage la Prairie.

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Ltd., are making arrangements for handling the 1921 wool clip of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and as was the case last year they have decided to operate two wool receiving warehouses, one at Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, and the other at Regina. These warehouses will be open to receive wool and sheepskin from June 1 to August 15, and upon request woolacks and paper twine will be sent out to contributors from these points. All correspondence will be handled from the Regina office.

The company on request, in addition to forwarding woolacks and paper twine to contributors, will also forward sufficient Cooper's Dip, either powder or liquid, as desired, to dip their flocks, the cost being deducted from the wool cost. All wool should be shipped to reach the company's warehouse either at Portage la Prairie or Regina, between June 1 and August 15. The wool will be shipped in car lots from the above points in original sacks to the central warehouse at Weston, Ont., where it will be graded by experienced graders provided by the Dominion Livestock Branch and weighed by a Dominion Government weighmaster. It has also been arranged that on request from the producer, an advance payment of approximately two-thirds of the market value of the wool will be paid just as soon as the wool has been graded, the wool being sold when in the opinion of the management, it is possible to obtain its market value and as soon as it is all sold, final returns will be paid to the producers, who will be paid everything realized from the sale of the wool less the actual cost of marketing, as provided by the bylaws of the company.

Former Bandit Has Changed From Destruction to Production.

Everybody interested in the prevalence of peace and prosperity in Mexico will be pleased by the statement that Francisco Villa, formerly a leader of bandits in the Southern Republic, expects to harvest 50,000 bushels of wheat on the large tract of land granted him by the government. He has not actually turned his arms into agricultural implements, but he has changed from destruction to production, and, with the aid of modern farming tools, is apparently achieving a success that will redound to his credit. In other words, it is good to know that Villa is now raising grain instead of raising "Cain." —From the Christian Science Monitor.

ENCOURAGING CANADIAN FORESTRY

Scene of a Forest Fire.

It was only during recent years that the public of Canada began to fully realize the value of the trees of the country, and the necessity for protecting them. Only recently does the worth of a tree until its shade is gone. Canada was so rich in forests that the people imagined that their forests were inexhaustible. But very often the destruction has swept over the wooded areas to such an alarming extent that the people at last realized that steps would have to be taken to save the trees.

Two years ago the Canadian Forestry Association was inaugurated. To-day under the presidency of Mr. C. E. Usher, passenger train manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is one of the most flourishing organizations in the Dominion.

The production of the forests is one of the greatest assets of Canada. The pulp and paper business and the lumber business supply tens of thousands with profitable employment. The object of the Canadian Forestry Association is to preserve existing forests, to encourage tree planting, and provide the most up to date forestry administration.

The forests have now 12,500 members, the majority of whom are not financially interested in timber limits, saw mills or paper mills. It is completely independent of government and of all other public bodies and has the more easily, on that account, won public confidence and attained great influence through its aggressive educational campaign. The work of the Canadian Forestry Association has aimed to encourage a spirit of intelligent partnership between the federal and provincial governments and the saw- and paper industries in connection with the protection and management of the forests.

To diminish much more than in the past the destruction of timber by the association to be far the most important problem. After that it gives due consideration to replanting and general forest management. The work of the association in its educational campaign are due to the variety of practical methods that are followed. These include public lectures through the country, a speakers bureau of three hundred voluntary workers; travelling lecture cars in the East and in the West; the preparation of travelling lecture sets of lantern slides, and lecture manuscripts; an illustrated forestry magazine; the placing of "sermonettes" on the menu cards in restaurants, and little warnings in cigarette packages, etc.

Tree planting in the Prairie Provinces is making rapid headway at present. On April 10th, 1921, a tree planting campaign was started.

There are now more than 50,000 plantations of trees in the three prairie provinces, and more than 100,000 acres have been furnished by the Dominion Government nursery at Indian Head to prairie farmers. Fully 90 per cent. of them have been successfully planted.

Tree planting campaigns are now under way in the prairie provinces.

The Home of the Big Tyee

Tyee Salmon caught at the mouth of Campbell River, Vancouver Island.

On the rim of the world in Western Canada, just off the mainland of British Columbia, lies Vancouver Island, an outpost of the Empire. This Island, which, on a map of the world, looks like a small speck in comparison with the vast area of Canada, is as big as several of the Kingdoms of Europe, and is in reality made up of 15,000 square miles of magnificence and diversified country.

One of the Island's chief attractions to the traveler, if he is any thing of a sportsman, is the opportunity of getting fishing and hunting to be obtained among the mountain fastnesses, the giant timber, and in the waters of the lakes and streams. In a day or two's time, out from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia, situated on the southern extremity of Vancouver Island, will take one to the most magnificence of the world. The streams of the island are a sanctuary of all sorts of game, from the black bear and the elk, to the beaver and the squirrel, from the quail to the eagle. But perhaps the sport which most men in Vancouver Island famous is more its fishing than its hunting, for the salmon caught in the waters here are the biggest in the world.

There are two streams on the Island which rival one another from a sportsman's point of view.

The first, which has been noted by all sportsmen, is the Cowichan River, which precipitates, down the social scale, to the Cowichan River, named for a famous Indian tribe which used to inhabit that part of the country, and which, when the Indians were driven out, left behind them many tragic and romantic stories. The Prince of Wales, during his week's visit to Vancouver Island tried his luck in this stream, and many of his predecessors have spent a holiday here; and King George himself, when he was in this country, fished in the streams of the Island.

On the rim of the world in the West.

During the months of August the migratory salmon species known as the big Tyee Salmon (King Salmon) comes to the mouth of this river on its way to the spawning beds; and to appreciate just how endlessly exciting fishing can be, you should witness what goes on here at the height of the season.

The fish run up to sixty pounds and over, and it is an uncommon sight to see a hundred men busily engaged sport fishing at the same time.

The water itself is never quiet, for here you feel the current of the bolterous river, and the swell of the ocean, and to this is added the noise of men and women shouting, your own lines singing in your ears, the boat laid over almost on its side from the pull of the heavy fish, fight after fight, until you have enough "thrills" to make you remember the occasion. Many is the tie that gives the fisherman from a half hour to an hour's hard work before he is finally gaffed.

The traps and snares of the commercial fishermen are threatening the magnificence of the Empire.

But the most thrilling sport of all is that obtainable at Campbell River, the stream which for the present marks the northern boundary of the transcontinental Highway, and which has been the scene of many a day's hard motor drive from Victoria.

The Campbell River takes its rise in the mountain lakes in the interior of the Island and comes bounding and roaring down to the sea, impetuous and impetuous as a wild beast suddenly unleashed, except for the spots where it widens out into the Campbell River here it is as peaceful as a pond.

It fully serenates all in blue. Eight miles in from its mouth it tapers down a great cliff to find another bed for itself over a hundred

WHEAT GREW FIVE INCHES IN THREE DAYS

Camrose Farmer Claims Record

J. S. MacRae reports wheat having grown five inches in three days on his farm, five miles east and half a mile south of Camrose, says the Canadian, and claims it is a record hard to beat. Oats and Barley are also coming along well in Mr. MacRae's district, and indications point to the heaviest crop they have had in that district. It measured 19 inches at the first measurement, and five days later it was 24 inches.

A Jolt To The Wheel

By Julia Loga Archibald

It really happened. There are people who would doubt it; they would say that the American stage is too well marshalled for such occurrences. But they never knew Cary Merle. And they never knew Kenton Gray. She could not be catalogued; she was too elusive—slight and fine, too elusive and rare. She was only half American. Her mother had been a great Spanish dancer, whose stage career had ended when she married a southern aristocrat. Cary danced from babyhood. Teaching her was the only outlet for her mother's genius. Dancing was woven into the child's play; it was part of every mood—as natural as breathing. She herself did not dream how wonderful she was and her father's family frowned upon any trace of the mother's disapproving though glorious past.

Now she was alone, all her near relatives dead. For a year she had been struggling in New York. She had gone to managers. She was not the usual dancing type—was not in their dictionary, and they would not give her the opportunity to show she could dance. At last one of them, calculating her decorative effect, gave her a chorus job in the beautiful fantastic opera, "The Enchanted Road."

Kenton Gray was the composer and haunted every performance and every rehearsal with his kind, though weary smile. The opera represented blood and tears, and at last the bloom of life to him. He had had a sort of tragic existence until the tremendous success of this opera, and even now was not quite happy in its production.

The company was soon to sail for a London season—at least all except Trix, the premiere dancer, who was shortly to accomplish matrimony. Kenton Gray had never been pleased with her, though technically she was perfect, but as 'the weeks passed and no one was found worthy to take her place, the troubled look sank deeper into his eyes.

The company adored Cary. She made you feel you were somebody else, the person you always wanted to be. Nobody was jealous of her. She never got anything definite that anybody else wanted. She just drifted, carelessly shedding light for others to bask in. If most loved her, they never told her so. It was like loving an elf or a nymph—she seemed so detached, so intangible.

Kenton Gray had singled her out from the first—in an absent-minded sort of way. He used to call her to sit by him sometimes during long tiring-wait. He talked to her about her old home in Charleston, her father and mother, and his manner was always quite fatherly. Her happy chatter seemed a little stifled with him.

W. N. U. 1371

The orchestra leader, Leon Vallon, was a queer genius, a sort of protege of Kenton Gray's. He and Cary were great friends.

"Why is he always so sad?" she asked one day when no name had been mentioned.

"Oh, I don't know," he said, "just the loneliness of genius, I suppose. And then he's troubled about the dancer. You see most people wouldn't understand. I don't think he understands himself, but he's put his whole ideal of love into that role—the enchantress—and perhaps nobody will ever do it to please him—unless, perhaps—well he's always been disappointed in it perhaps."

"It's too bad," she said misily, "he can't be happy in it—it's so beautiful. It's the enchanted road-of-life. Why, it makes me happy and I'm only a little spot of shrubbery alongside of it. Oh, if—he only could!"

Then it was that the idea struck Vallon. He had often played for Cary to dance, just for the sheer joy of it and he had a dim realization that her dancing was unusual, and perhaps he had a dim realization of something else too.

But now Vallon's soul was stirred, and so it was he hatched the plot. Walburn, the producer, was to sail the next day, two weeks ahead of the company. Some English dancer would be secured—of very doubtful quality.

Vallon told Trix, who readily consented to be his accomplice. "But do you think shell do it? Has she the nerve? She is about as practical as a frolicsome kitten."

When he went to Cary she looked bewildered, her lips trembling. Then she said she would.

At seven-forty that night she was peering into a cracked mirror in the dressing room putting the last touch of make-up on the end of her tip-tilted nose. Later, out in front, she moved in a daze, but, at Vallon's scolding eye, she managed little make-believe smiles as she tripped at the end of her line.

The act was nearing the end. The chorus line was swinging down stage preparatory to going off at the other side. Cary was the last of the line.

The lights were lowered and the spotlight turned on for Trix's dance, but there was no Trix. (Trix could faint as casually as a Jane Austin heroine.)

Cary stood stock still until she was alone on the stage.

She was panic-stricken. She could not move until she saw Vallon's face in the shadows and his hand beckoning her.

She reached the spot of light in the centre. The stage manager was all but shouting at her from the wings. Walburn's figure, in his box, shot up right like a pillar of darkness. A strange emptiness and stillness seemed to close in around her. And somewhere out in front she knew was Kenton Gray groping his way toward his own enchanted road.

Then the orchestra began to call to her, rising and falling in rhythmic melody. Her body began to sway with the music, as lithely as a flower bends on its stem.

The spotlight followed her, the stage director became quiescent, and Cary began to dance. Her face was alight with a soft seraphic smile, and the audience held its breath.

She began in a slow swinging motion, like the rising and falling, in circles of flight of a bird, a little white night-bird all ashimmer with silver-blue moonlight. Fountains of melody rose and swelled and burst in a myriad bright drops of ecstasy, while her little feet danced with the light exquisite patter of a faerie host.

Round and round she danced in widening circles. Now she became a gray-blue curling wreath of sound, about in low shadowy chords of sound. It was all in the night and somewhere were the moon and stars and cloudless sky, and the tinkle of faerie bells. Formless dreams floated into the hearts of those who saw and peace hung upon a young and sinless world.

Her swing grew to whirling and the whirling into swirling, until she became a mere scintillating spot, mad in a maze of color. At last, still upon her toes, with arm stretched wide, she skinned down the whole length of the stage; as the curtain went down, her head dropped and she sank into a heap before the footlights, drowned in her own glory.

They picked up the limp little form and bore it to the dressing room. The terrible storm of applause thundered madly, until the manager appeared with uplifted hand to say that Senorita Carita was indisposed. If possible she would reappear during the last act, and on succeeding evenings, in one of her original dances.

It was fifteen minutes later that Cary opened her eyes and let them rest comfortably upon Kenton Gray's face, while the orchestra played dreamily out in front. In some man's way of his he was keeping the crowd away from her. She took him quite as a matter of course, and when he paused in the chafing of her hand and smiled to see her returning strength, she was glad he was no longer sad. She brushed back a lock of hair from his forehead, as if she had done it a hundred times before. Then she closed her eyes again.

He leaned nearer her, breathing fast. "Cary," he hurried, "Walburn will be here in a few moments with a contract for you to sign. You're the sweetest little thing that God ever made. All I want is you! That's all I ever wanted. You don't need to dance for Walburn. It's like buying and selling Heaven. Can't you do you—love?"

Her eyes opened slowly. "Oh, yes," she said languidly, "I do. I have all along, of course. That's why I—I didn't mind jogging the wheel of fate a little."

For British Preference

Reasons Why Canadians Should Buy
Within the Empire.

"The new Budget has made it more advantageous than ever for Canadians to buy British goods; rather than those of United States manufacture," declared Captain Evan J. Edwards, senior British Trade Commissioner in Canada, in a recent interview in Montreal. "It will also be a big help to agents and business houses who prefer to do business with the Mother Country, and within the British Empire. Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, in his speech when introducing the Budget, pointed out that business with the United Kingdom continues to be satisfactory, imports from these having risen from $126,359,249 in 1919 to $123,930,946 in 1920, with the added satisfaction to Canadian buyers and consumers that their dollars are at a premium in the English market, as against a discount in the United States.

"A section of the Budget which will assist very much indeed is the clause requiring customs duty to be levied on the invoiced value of goods after taking the rate of exchange into account. At the desire of business interests throughout Canada, customs regulations drawn up several months ago made it compulsory for this to be done with European goods, but for certain reasons no similar requirements were made on imports from the States. The result was a considerable advantage to importers of American goods, so much so, that in many cases with a high rate of exchange it amounted to a quite substantial reduction of the protective customs tariff, and sometimes did away with the preferential tariff given to products of the Empire.

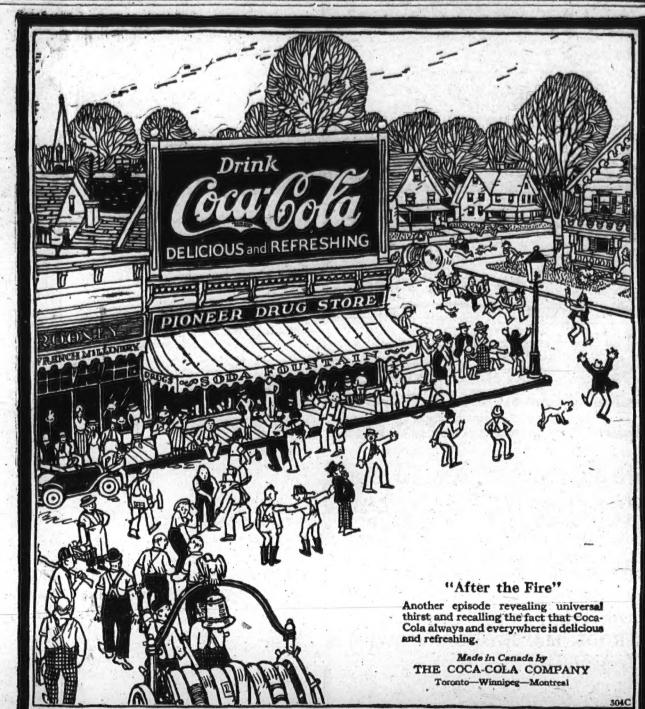

"Now American manufacturers will rank the same as those of any other country," continued Captain Edwards, "and I believe the effect will be not only to encourage British trade, but to assist considerably in re-establishing the equilibrium of trade between Canada and the States, and bring back to its fair value the Canadian dollar, which is improving so slowly that still it is worth only some ninety cents in the States."

"Sir Henry Drayton says—and it is clearly known to every business man, including those Canadians and Americans who are interested in pouring into this country quantities of American capital—that Canada must save herself from financial bankruptcy, must buy less from the States, of products which can be raised or made on this side of the line, or in the United Kingdom.

"With the new aids to Empire trade, derived from Sir Henry's latest Budget, a saving of often from thirty to forty per cent. to the Canadian consumer can be shown by buying Empire products instead of American, and as Britishers, it is not necessary to remind Canadians that there are few lines of goods in which Old Country quality is not superior to that of the American article.

"Canada's own products can be far better supplied than they now are, by herself," insists Captain Edwards, who has many years' experience in big business in the Old Country and the older Dominions adds authority to his statements: "More aggressive selling campaigns by our own manufacturers, perhaps a willingness to spread heavy overhead charges more thinly over a bigger production by price reductions, and more reluctance on the part of Canadian buyers to be cajoled by the wiles of the American salesmen in our midst," would all assist Canada in getting financially on her own feet."

The Home Of No Trash

BY LORETO C. LYNCH
An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

Most homes contain little or much trash. And it is not until one starts to move or houseclean that she discovers how many useless things she is harboring.

A bride of a year came to me the other day with a confession. Said she, "This day housekeeping job is not what story writers would have it believe. I work just all the time—and you simply have to work all the time if you are to keep your house in good order."

She invited me to her home of seven rooms and bath.

One entire room was devoted to What Nots and other trash. It was termed "The Den." And it was laden to capacity with things from a miniature of Cleopatra's Needle to the proverbial, but decidedly realistic, angora.

To make it a trashless home, it would have been necessary to get rid of nine-tenths of the ENCUMBRANCES in that Den.

But there is another type of trash hangar. It is the home in which everything of no use is relegated to the unoffending bathroom or guest (?) room or kitchen or attic.

Every housewife recognizes in her heart that there is TRASH of some kind in her home. Why doesn't she get rid of it? For, it takes REAL courage to resist the heart that comes to the born hoarder when she parts with that worn-out washboard—when she makes off with the mangy hairbrush, the peeling mirror, the ruined umbrella, the headless doll, the trippy door-mat, the time-worn brassie teaspoon and the cracked plate.

In contrast to the home cluttered with trash, let me tell you about a really beautiful home. At first you wondered why you felt such a sense of restfulness. And soon you began to realize that the charm of this home was due in great measure to its lack of furniture and furnishings.

As you entered, you came into the reception hall. On either side of the fireplace was a built-in bookcase. There was one large, delightfully roomy divan, a built-in window seat, a willow armchair. And you looked at the vivid Indian rug on the floor and your eye wandered over uncluttered wall space until it rested on some exquisite, soul-stirring picture. And you just sat down into a resting attitude and wished to stay long, long in this charming room.

Here housekeeping was just like playing house for it was a trashless home.

Hollow Prison Bars

Filled With Water; Slightest Break
Would Cause Investigation.

A new type of bars, designated for prisons is made of hollow metal, filled with water. These pipes are all connected with a central pump, and the water is kept under high pressure. Thus, the slightest break in any bar would cause a powerful jet of water to spurt. To continue filling the bar would be almost impossible. Also the fact that there was a leakage somewhere would be registered on a dial on the central pump, and lead to speedy investigation.

J. JOSEPH DROUIN of Montreal, dealer in hardware, after six years with dry goods, six bottles of Tanlac made a real man of him—Gained 85 pounds.

"I could hardly believe my own eyes when I stepped on the scales after taking six bottles of Tanlac and found I had gained 85 pounds. I had five pounds in weight when Mr. Joseph Drouin, 2194 A, St. Denis St., Montreal, who, for the past twenty-six years, has been passenger conductor on the Canadian Pacific Railway and is well and widely known along the line of his run between Montreal and Moing Lauzon.

"Before I started on this medicine I was in a bad way. For years I'd had to take my meals here, there and everywhere and, as the result of this I was in a bad way. I had to give up all my work, all my pleasure, all my money, lost all my desire for food and what little I ate would form gas and bloat me up until I could hardly breathe because I was nervous. I couldn't sleep at all, yet I was taking a good deal of exercise in the mornings. I didn't care whether I took my train out or not; I fell off twenty-five pounds in weight and became alarmed about my condition, so I had to eat all sorts of medicine with great relish."

"Then, one day, I read a statement in the paper which decided me to give Tanlac a thorough trial. 'Well,' I never would have believed any medicine could do a man so much good in such a short time. I quickly left the city and took a boat to the country. I ate what I could eat, three good square meals a day and no longer have any trouble with indigestion or gas. I can sleep well at night, even when on the road. I am taking it and it will take a collision to wake me up. I now turn the scales at two hundred and ten pounds, which is ten pounds more than I ever weighed in my life and better in every way than I have ever been. I am a new man. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever tried."

"Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere."

A Giant Parachute

Could Lift Cabin With Passengers From Airplane In Distress.

A parachute large enough to lift the cabin complete with all the passengers from an airplane in distress was described by T. Orde Lees in a lecture to the Royal Aeronautical Society in London.

The decision and operation were placed in the hands of the pilot so that the passengers were not called upon to think for themselves.

During the war (the lecturer estimated) 200 British pilots jumped without parachutes from their burning machines at high altitudes rather than be roasted to death. All were killed. Nearly all would have been saved if they had had parachutes.

I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and found good results, and also that it very helpfully relieved sprains and cramps useful for constipation from which I suffer much. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to several friends, and am sure you would be pleased that Mrs. Martha W. Linday, 810 Robinson St., Regina, Sask.

Addressing Letters

System Used By Spain Must Save Much Time.

In our method of addressing an envelope, I wonder, the best one? In Spain the method adopted is exactly the reverse to ours. The name of the country to which the letter is to be sent is written at the top of the envelope, the name of the town next, and on the following line the personal or private address, while on the last line the name of the addressee is inscribed. I suppose the writer arranges his letters according to the name of the country first, town next, precinct of that town last, while the postman and the recipient only are concerned with the name on the envelope, so that the saving of time which this system must effect seems to contradict the impression that the Spanish are "inefficient." Can there be any reason not readily apparent, which has kept other countries from adopting this system?—The Westminster Gazette.

British Coal Imports Mostly Canadian. The importation of Canadian coal seems to be a somewhat important factor in meeting the situation caused by the miners' strike in Great Britain. Recently a despatch to the London Times dealing with the receipts of foreign coal, emphasized the fact that nearly all the vessels arriving at Glasgow with coal cargoes were Canadian.

Rush For Homesteads

Majority Filing on Lands Are From British Isles.

About one hundred and nine entries for homesteads have been filed at the Dominion Lands Office since May 1, as a result of the throwing open by the Dominion Lands Department of areas which were formerly reserved for returned soldiers, officials, or the department unoccupied. The majority of homesteaders, filing on these new blocks of land, are newcomers from the British Isles, and are of an industrious and energetic type.

When Brains Are Best.

British psychologists have recently drawn up a schedule of brain efficiency, which, if it be accurate, should greatly assist in "placing" important engagements, when one wishes to be most alert.

The schedule says that the brain is 100 per cent efficient at 8 a.m.; 104.3 at 9 a.m.; 106.6 at 10; 105.6 at 11; 98.7 at 1; 100.6 at 2; 105.1 at 3; 104.2 at 4; 100.4 at 5.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a "herbal" substitute for Castor Oil, Paragoric, Dipsa or Soothing Syrup. It is pleasant. It contains another Opium, Morphine, a whole narcotic substance. It has no its equal. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulence, Wind, Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Fervorishness, arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. TEACHING FUTURE FARMERS

Lamb Competition

With agriculture the first industry of Canada and likely to remain so, the farmer is a factor of paramount importance in the Dominion's national life, and the better farmer he is, the greater the benefit to the country. His sons and daughters are the farmers and farmers of to-morrow and so their education is really one of the most important problems of the country. To keep the children of the farm on the land, a love of the farm and a desire to retain it must be instilled in early years, and so it is incumbent upon all who have national agricultural progress at heart to make the education of the young people along agricultural lines as pleasant as possible. Agriculture is a life profession, the study of which is never exhausted; and the earlier one commences seriously to learn it, the greater are the chances for the happiness and success of the life.

An so boys and girls in Western Canada are being taught in their early years how to farm so as to obtain the utmost from the earth and to realize that it is the richness of its virgin state, and how to rear the best type of animal and discover for themselves the fallacy of bringing to maturity the scrub and the scrag of the wilds, in which they see little romance; they become imbued with the nobility of the agricultural profession and are keen to adopt the pursuit as their life work.

This object is best achieved by giving the child his own plot of soil to cultivate or his own calf or lamb to raise, playing upon the natural instinct of love he possesses. To further encourage the young idea special classes are arranged for at provincial exhibitions at which the youngsters can exhibit the grain and cattle for whose production and growth they are responsible, and compete with other boys and girls in the work of rearing the best type of competitive criticism. The competitions cover many classes of farm endeavor and there are equal chances for the youngsters of both sexes in the awards. Through girls and boys, just as through grain and livestock entries as their brothers, there are many classes in which they shine alone, all of which have relation to the multifarious duties of the western farmer's wife.

No one can doubt the success of this system of education, who is present at one of these exhibitions and sees the animation which pervades the atmosphere which surrounds the judging events. Excitement waxes high as exhibit after exhibit is eliminated and the final one in the culminating selection of annual champions. And in regions which are producing grain and cattle which carry off world honors, it can readily be appreciated that their wives are the most creditable examples of their kind. But the most valuable feature of the work is the love of good farming for itself which is fostered by the love of competition, and the inspiration to raise more and better produce to their own and the national gain.

SPORT DOPE.
(By Buck)

In a recent issue of Rod and Gun, there appeared under the heading "Making Rivers Safe", the following paragraph: "Lovers of game fish and others are raising a protest against the custom of prohibition officials in dumping large consignments of captured whisky into running streams near hand." A recent case in Kentucky is instance where several barrels of "moonshine" poured into an adjacent river with some lamentable results. A great number of "fish" were attracted to the vicinity and there was a great flapping of tails and fins. Salmon, pike and trout were involved. Many skates were present in a short time and eye-witnesses who caught some of the "pickled" fish declared that smelt were numerous, or that many fish smelt, which amounts, we suppose to the same thing. Some of the fish rolled up helplessly on their backs and others clung up on the banks of the river and fell asleep. Others became quarrelsome and several flat fish attempted to climb up on the perch but there was no place for them. A pleasant time was had by all.

This Moonshine seems to have the same effects on human "fish".

A farmer who has just passed away in a neighboring district has a clause in his will to the effect that six bank managers should be appointed as his pall bearers. His reason for requesting this — he had written was — They have carried me for the last twenty years — so they might as well finish the job.

In the game of base-ball, played between Irma and Albert, last week, one of the Irma players received a dislocated elbow due to the foul playing of the Albert catcher. We might say that such men, as those who do not know the rules of base-ball, should not play. For sooner or later someone is going to use spikes and the guy who attempts to block base-lines is going to suffer the consequences.

The base-ball team gave a dance in the Co-op Hall after the games on Wednesday. Quite a crowd gathered and topped off the days sport by dancing until 3 p.m. We learn that the ball team have a little cash in the treasury now. But if they don't get a move on, it will be drawing interest for the next twenty years.

We are all waiting for the "oil boom" to burst and splatter this burg with little lubricating oil so that things may slide along a little livelier for awhile. There seems to be much friction at present. Take for instance the ball team: The old players don't seem to realize that they are "has-beens" and continually keep sticking their noses into the business of the younger boys. Why don't these old birds get it into their heads that there are just as good players in Irma as there were and these among the younger generation. If the has-beens would only give their support, instead of their sarcastic remarks, Irma might again grasp a place in the field of sport.

CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

Thursday morning the Irma district received a good shower and prospects look good for continued showers. No crops are suffering yet from want of moisture but a few hot days would no doubt have begun to show on some of the lighter land. Wheat in one field near town measures 30 inches and spring rye adjoining this is 55 inches high.
